

Futures Have Always Been A Good Investment

Strengthening the profession, nurturing advances in crop science and realizing a solution to global hunger can only be realized by developing an outstanding cadre of young crop scientists to provide leadership in the coming decades.

To meet this challenge and celebrate its 50th anniversary, the Crop Science Society of America has developed the Golden Opportunity Scholars Institute.

The Institute will encourage and inspire promising undergraduate students from all regions of the U.S. and the world to enroll in crop science-related programs at the college and university level and eventually become the next generation of leaders in our profession.

Golden Opportunity Scholars:

- Participate in a Golden Opportunity Scholars Symposium commencing at the 2006 annual meeting of CSSA,
- Participate in a Mentor Network and interact with prominent crop scientists,
- Receive a stipend for selected scholars to defray symposium attendance expenses,
- Are individually recognized at the annual meeting, and
- Receive membership in the CSSA Golden Opportunity Scholars alumni organization.
